- * * * It has been suggested that this piece does not belong to the Anglo-American, but rather to the Anglo-Hanoverian series of George I; but, according to the Rev.
H. Christmas, there were in Dr. Freudenthal's collection (now B.M.) two other varieties of this coin, the obverses of both of which were struck from the Rosa Americana die. This, in conjunction with the weight, the artist, and the mixed metal resembling brass (termed Bath metal), of which all the coins of the Rosa Americana series are composed, would seem to show that the above suggestion will not hold water.
